

Twelve Rules for Handling God's Word

Rule Number One:

Do not add or take from His Word.

Proverbs 30:6 NKJV

Do not add to His words, lest He rebuke you, and you be found a liar.

Deuteronomy 12:32 NKJV

Whatever I command you, be careful to observe it; you shall not add to it nor take away from it.

1 Corinthians 4:6 NKJV

. . . that you may learn in us not to think beyond what is written . . .

Don't even think beyond what is written. WOW. This requires us to pay attention to details and not be careless in our reading of the Word. Restraining ourselves from leaving out uncomfortable truths that do not conform to our preconceived theological perspective would be a practical application of this rule.

Rule Number Two:

Have two or three witnesses.

Matthew 18:16 NKJV

. . . by the mouth of two or three witnesses every word may be established.

2 Corinthians 13:1 NKJV

By the mouth of two or three witnesses every word shall be established.

Deuteronomy 19:15 NKJV

. . . by the mouth of two or three witnesses the matter shall be established.

This rule admonishes us not take one verse or passage on its own to make a doctrine from. As you may be aware, many heresies are based on isolated passages or single verses from the Bible.

Rule Number Three:

Get all the Scriptures on the subject.

Proverbs 18:13 NKJV

He who answers a matter before he hears it, it is folly and shame to him.

Ecclesiastes 12:13 NKJV

Let us hear the conclusion of the whole matter:

2 Timothy 3:16 NKJV

All Scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness,

Without the whole counsel of God on any subject we can easily come to wrong conclusions. In this study you will be presented with many commonly overlooked Scriptures that have been ignored by contemporary prophecy teachers. Failing to present all the prophetic Scriptures concerning the latter days has resulted in many false teachings about the end of the age.

Rule Number Four:

Do not attempt to interpret God's Word. Simply believe the plain reading.

2 Peter 1:20 NKJV

. . . no prophecy of Scripture is of any private interpretation,

2 Peter 3:16 NKJV

. . . untaught and unstable people twist to their own destruction, as they do also the rest of the Scriptures.

Deuteronomy 29:29 NKJV

The secret things belong to the Lord our God, but those things which are revealed belong to us and to our children forever,

Obviously there are passages that are highly symbolic and for us to understand the meaning we would have to have an interpretation. However, this is where many people stumble. Attempting to interpret any vision or dream, metaphoric passage or parable from God's Word that does not have an interpretation given in the Word itself is a sure way to open the door to private interpretations.

If God hasn't given the meaning in His Word, leave it alone! Remember, it is His prerogative to keep some things to Himself. "The secret things belong the Lord our God." It is the things that are revealed that are for us. Our response is not to interpret His Word, but to understand and believe it, or should I say: believe it, then you will understand it.

There is a huge difference between interpreting God's Word and understanding God's Word. People who interpret God's Word are lacking wisdom, therefore they lack understanding

Proverbs 4:7 NKJV

Wisdom is the principal thing; therefore get wisdom. And in all your getting, get understanding.

To speculate on the meaning of a symbolic passage of Scripture may be acceptable in some circumstances, provided we do not become dogmatic about our musings and attempt to make doctrine from it. This tendency to interpret God's Word is THE major stumbling block to understanding what it is that He actually intends for us to comprehend. As Joseph said when presented with a dream:

Genesis 40:8 NKJV

Do not interpretations belong to God?

Rule Number Five:

Do not take a verse out of context.

This rule is actually covered in the above but for clarification I have added it as a rule on its own. The tendency to take verses out of context is something I call Cut and Paste Theology. (Since taking up this phrase I have discovered others use it too.) With it you can even 'prove' that suicide is how we are to reckon ourselves dead to sin. Matthew 27:5 says that Judas hung himself and Luke 10:37 says that we should do likewise.

One of the primary laws of comprehension used in language translation is that the meaning of anything is found in its context. That's how you learnt your mother tongue. Therefore, do not take any verse or passage out of its historical and grammatical context and thereby alter its meaning. This would result in a twisting of the Scriptures and as they say, "A text out of context has become a con and not a text." Remember how the devil tempted Jesus with out of context Scripture quotations.

Rule Number Six:

The hidden meaning does not negate the plain reading.

This rule may seem obscure, but it has implications as to how we understand many prophecies. For example: the promise concerning Samson becoming a Nazarite in Judges 13:5 is fulfilled in the natural during his lifetime AND it is also applied to Jesus being brought up in Nazareth in Matthew 2:23. The fulfilment in the life of Jesus does not negate the fulfilment in the life of Samson. And so it is with many other Scriptures.

Another example of this principle is found in this verse: “Out of Egypt I called my son.” (Hosea 11:1) In its natural context it applies to Israel and in particular the leading tribe of Ephraim. Yet in Matthew 2:15 we find it applied to Jesus as a child with Joseph and Mary returning from Egypt after having fled there from the evil plans of King Herod.

In the course of this study, we will come across some promises made to Abraham and to the children of Israel that have dual meanings in the Word: one meaning for his natural descendants and another meaning for those who follow in his faith. What we must remember is that whilst the spiritual hidden meaning is revealed in the New Covenant and is positively okay to be applied to the people of faith, the natural prophetic proclamation still stands and will also most certainly come to pass.

Rule Number Seven:

Do not expect a dual fulfilment unless God indicates it is so in the Word.

This is the inverse of the previous rule. Not all prophecies have dual fulfilments. False prophets abound and one of the ways they deceive is to pronounce dual fulfilments for things that God has not revealed are so. The legitimate dual fulfilments are revealed as such by Scripture, not by man. Some prophecy pundits have gone so far as to declare that there is a law of dual or multiple fulfilment. This idea makes the way for all sorts of proclamations that are just not true. Here’s just one example that completely refutes that so called law: The prophecies about Jesus coming and His death being a once and for all sacrifice for sin definitely have no dual fulfilment.

It is acknowledged that God may ‘quicken’ a verse to you concerning a situation, even out of context for you personally, but that is not a licence to extrapolate doctrine or prophecy.

Rule Number Eight:

Scripture interprets Scripture.

This rule is likewise covered above, but again for clarification it is added as a rule on its own.

2 Peter 1:20 NKJV

Knowing this first, that no prophecy of Scripture is of any private interpretation,

2 Timothy 3:16 NKJV

All Scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness . . .

Combining 2 Timothy 3:16 with 2 Peter 1:20 reveals this important rule for our consideration. If a Scripture is not understood, and there is a need to be taught its meaning, allow the rest of Scripture to bring the understanding. Sooner or later, if you stay in His Word with the Holy Spirit leading you into the Truth, you will get the revelation that you desire. All Scripture is suitable for doctrine; that is teaching. So let ALL Scripture teach us what Scripture means. If this one rule was adhered to it would put away most, if not all, of the present day deceptions.

Rule Number Nine:

Let the witness of history confirm prophecy.

Jeremiah 28:9 NKJV

As for the prophet who prophesies of peace, when the word of the prophet comes to pass, the prophet will be known as one whom the Lord has truly sent.

Deuteronomy 18:22 NKJV

When a prophet speaks in the name of the Lord, if the thing does not happen or come to pass, that is the thing which the Lord has not spoken; the prophet has spoken it presumptuously; you shall not be afraid of him.

To discover which prophecies have or have not been fulfilled requires us to do the necessary historical research. With the aid of the internet this is no longer a major difficulty. This book will assist anyone who wants to follow through by bringing attention to historical events that can then be searched for online. I realise many will simply take my word for it, but I do encourage personal verification.

When I was at school, I never had any interest in history and did not consider it a worthwhile subject for me to study. Once I became a Christian and discovered that the Bible is entirely rooted in history, my attitude towards this subject completely changed. I found that an accurate knowledge of history is absolutely essential for one to ascertain what has been fulfilled and what is yet to come. The testimony of history is God's 'acid test' on prophecy. When history and prophecy kiss, you get reality.

Rule Number Ten:

Make Jesus the Cornerstone.

Ephesians 2:20 NKJV

. . . the foundation of the apostles and prophets, Jesus Christ Himself being the chief cornerstone . . .

Whilst this study is more or less chronological in its presentation, it is entirely based on what Jesus said in the Gospel accounts. Jesus Himself had to show the disciples on the road to Emmaus all the things that the prophets had said regarding His first coming. What He said opened their eyes. In like manner, the prophecies given by Jesus in the Gospels and the proclamations of the Apostles in the Letters will shine the necessary light on the prophetic Scriptures that speak of Judah, Israel and the Kingdom of God. Very difficult, if not impossible, trying to do it the other way around. It's like putting the prophetic cart before the horse.

Many people have misunderstood prophecies because they were not able to shine the full light of the Gospel onto what they were reading. If there is confusion concerning what it means to be crucified with Christ, to be a new creation in Christ, to be made the righteousness of God in Christ, to be dead to sin and alive to God, then the light of the Gospel is not yet shining fully into the heart and mind.

A proper understanding of the Gospel and all that it has done for the man or woman of God, who has been born again, will preclude certain assumptions being made about the nature and destiny of the Kingdom of God and its manifestation in this earth and age. In like manner, this understanding will also keep us from deceptions regarding the fulfilment of God's promises for the Kingdom of Judah and the Kingdom of Israel.

This is probably the most important rule of all in understanding God's Word. First let Christ be the Cornerstone of our whole being and then Jesus can be the Cornerstone of our prophetic understanding. Amen.

Rule Number Eleven:

Know that God does not contradict Himself or His Character.

Numbers 23:19 ESV

God is not man, that he should lie, or a son of man, that he should change his mind.

James 1:17 NKJV

. . . the Father of lights, with whom there is no variation or shadow of turning.

If we have an understanding of a particular verse or passage that doesn't fit with other passages on the same subject, it is our understanding that has to change. The Spirit of God who inspired the Scriptures is the same yesterday, today and forever. As a new believer, one of the first things that I realised about the Kingdom of God was that it was completely logical and without contradiction.

Rule Number Twelve:

Speak the Truth in Love.

This rule I have inserted is not so much to do with how we understand God's Word, but how we deliver it. However, if we are lacking in our delivery, it will affect our ability to understand.

1 Corinthians 13:1-2 NKJV

Though I speak with the tongues of men and of angels, but have not love, I have become sounding brass or a clanging cymbal. 2 And though I have the gift of prophecy, and understand all mysteries and all knowledge, and though I have all faith, so that I could remove mountains, but have not love, I am nothing.

Ephesians 4:15 NKJV

. . . but, speaking the truth in love, may grow up in all things into Him who is the head—Christ—

James 1:22 NKJV

But be doers of the word, and not hearers only, deceiving yourselves.

It is simply not good enough for us to speak the truth. If we try to convey the Word of God to those around us without the fruit of love, we actually become an unpleasant noise and a stumbling block to that very same truth. And as the above verse points out, if we fail to become doers of the Word by not speaking the truth in love, we ourselves will become deceived. Want to avoid deception? Be sure to walk in love.

With the Twelve Rules for Handling God's Word, the diligent disciple can approach the subject of prophecy with confidence and not be deceived. I believe it's time for some 'let us' salad.

Let us not add to the plain meaning of the Word. Let us not try interpreting the Word according to our own understanding and end up twisting the Scriptures. Let us gather all the Scriptures on the matter and thereby avoid jumping to wrong conclusions by failing to hear the whole story. At a minimum; let us have two or three witnesses to establish any doctrine. Let us also be careful to examine Scriptures in the light of the context wherein they are found. And to establish whether we are to expectantly look to the future for the fulfilment of a prophecy, let us consider the historical records and see if the prediction has already come to pass. Let us make the words of Jesus the foundation of all our knowledge and let us always be ready to grow in our understanding, especially when we find what appears to be a contradiction. Let us not lean on our own understanding and read into God's Word things He has not put there. And last but not least, let us speak the Word in LOVE. You will find that I have been diligent to hold fast to these precepts.

We may never get to know every little detail about the times to come. Nevertheless, as God's people we can know the necessary basics of His latter day road map sufficiently well to keep us from being blown about by the many winds of doctrine which have been and will be unleashed to deceive, if possible, the very elect (Matthew 24:24). In the Synoptic Gospels, where we find the bulk of Jesus' prophetic statements, Matthew and Mark record these words: "Take heed that no man deceive you." And Luke says similarly: "Take heed lest any man deceive you."

Praise the Lord, the darkness of confusion and deception flees at the light of His Word. God's Word speaks and we can simply say AMEN. Through this comprehensive Bible Study, the student of eschatology will have a better understanding of God's purposes and plans concerning the Kingdom of God, the Kingdom of Judah and the Kingdom of Israel. Consequently, you will be well equipped to recognize the many false prophets and false teachers that Jesus said would abound in the last days. What's more, you will not be relying on the words of any teacher, and certainly not me, but you will have the Prophetic Word of God confirmed in your hearts by the Holy Spirit. This will enable you to pray according to the will of God concerning the fulfilment of His plan to not only bring forth a great harvest out from among the Gentiles, but also to gather the descendants of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob into the Promised Land AND into the Kingdom of God during the latter days before the end of the age.

Because of the busyness of raising a family and being generally active in the work of the Lord, this project has taken me several years to complete and was initially begun only to satisfy my own quest for truth. I did not set out to write a book. In the course of my study of God's Word, I had discovered with various subjects that it was absolutely necessary to have the full counsel of God on any matter before the whole truth could be readily understood. Confronted with a myriad of different end-time theories, I decided to apply this principle of "getting all the verses on a subject" to the study of prophecy in the belief that God was not the author of all the confusion and that if I followed His instructions He would lead me into the truth.

As I continued to grow in understanding, I eventually became convinced that what I was discovering was not solely for my own benefit. As I did not want to reinvent the wheel, I searched online to see if anyone had already published anything like what I was envisioning and found to my surprise that there was nothing on the market.

I then found myself gifted with the opportunity and the ability to sit at this keyboard for hours on end and doggedly tap away, mostly with two fingers. During the process I became amazed at how it was all coming together: certain snippets of information would somehow just get stumbled upon; a revelation of His Word would come to me in the middle of the night; a discussion with another saint would correct my thinking; an amazing 'coincidence' which upon reflection let me know that the Hand of God was upon the whole process; and eventually this book emerged.

As the story from the Scriptures was unfolding and I was searching for a name for this work, I was going to call this revelation of God's plan by a rather cryptic title: The Lion and The Unicorn on the Road to Zion. However, I was persuaded that it might give the impression of a fantasy and frustrate God's purpose in having me prepare this study by taking away from the seriousness of the subject. But now it seems okay to present this alternative title as a mystery, a riddle to be solved along the way. God willing, in the midst of this study you will get to identify the Lion and the Unicorn on the Road to Zion and accompany them on their journey if you have not already done so. You may even find yourself riding on the back of the Unicorn.

I hope you will enjoy reading and learning what God's Word has to say about Judah, Israel and the Kingdom of God as much as I have in producing it. It is my desire that it may enlighten the eyes of your understanding to God's incredibly glorious plan for His people in the latter days and at the same time prepare your hearts for the trials of faith that are to be endured before the end of the age.
